

Jay H Shubrook DO is a Board-Certified family physician and a Fellowship trained Diabetologist. He is a Professor at Touro University California where he also serves as the Director of Diabetes Services. His research focus is on the prevention and early intervention for type 2 diabetes. His clinical and professional focus is on better training the primary care workforce to be prepared to help people manage diabetes. He has published hundreds of articles on diabetes and its related conditions. He is the Associate Editor of Clinical Diabetes. He is the Chair of the Executive Board of the American College of Diabetology- a new pathway to recognize primary care physicians who provide excellence in diabetes care. He recently published his first book — “Everyday Diabetes: Case Studies in Primary Care” which is available online.